

THE ROLE OF COMPUTER AND INTERNET

Today, computers and the Internet, has become an important element in the life of the individual of all ages. Especially the young generation carries out a lot of.

And not just academics, teachers can use web sources for ideas on sports competitions, extracurricular activities, picnics, parties and more. They occupy very less space, yet store large amounts of data. From the government to the private sector everyone is using the computer. But children need more play time in order to develop into healthy adults. As a result, creating a technology assessment to be utilized by e-learning educators and students to measure the level of computer and Internet access was recommended. All our daily life activities are based on such online services and products. You can communicate with people around the world through the use of the computer. Students can use MS-Office to create assignments, to do the mathematical calculation, presentation, etc. Show full item record Abstract This study was based on previous research that investigated the disparity or gap between those who have access to computers and the Internet and those who do not Hoffman and Novak, ; NTIA, b; Carey, Chisholm and Irwin, ; Vail, Zeliff, ; Glenn, Physically distant locations have come closer due to Internet accessibility. Some people are using a computer to take online classes. They are used in networking, for information access and data storage and also in the processing and presentation of information. Improving the level of technology access should be addressed to promote positive attitudes regarding e-learning tools. Doctors are using a computer to diagnose the diseases of patients faster. Else you can use the computer with the internet to do online shopping and you can start an online business too. Access to the Internet Quick communication between students, teachers and parents Computer teaching plays a key role in the modern education system. Such uses of banking in our daily life are stored, calculated and managed by computers with speed and accuracy. The uses of a computer for school students should be to explore creativity and imagination. Knowledge of computers can propel one's career in the right direction. If space is at a premium in your office, take the time to compare the size and shape of available machines. Such as listening to music on the computer, earning money online, doing internet banking, communicating online with friends and family, running an online business, taking online classes, etc. Additional findings revealed that socioeconomic status and race did influence computer ownership.